Curriculum Design

The innovative curriculum offered by SR University is designed based on the following 4i's.

- Innovation, Creativity & Entrepreneurial Mindset
- Industry Relevance
- Interdisciplinary Learning
- Information Technology

Innovation, Creativity & Entrepreneurial Mindset is thinking differently, pushing boundaries, visioning new future, and pioneering new ideas for the benefit of the individual, corporation, nation, and society. The curriculum is designed to foster the development of such mindset through multiple design courses and projects in individual courses. Students start with the design course in the first year where they learn and practice these skills while working in teams. EPICS (Engineering Projects in Community Service) program is a part of the engineering curriculum. In this unique program students design, build, and deploy real systems to solve engineering-based problems for local community service and education organizations.

Further, Weekly Innovation Challenges will be conducted to students. The goal of the competitions is for students to exercise their minds and creativity, just as they would their bodies. Challenges nurture their curiosity, ability to articulate and pitch their ideas, and design-build-test their ideas. Additional student competitions and activities that are open to all students help them to network with students from other disciplines and seniors. In this ecosystem, students become thought leaders who have the ability to conceive creative ideas, realize the innovative solutions, and create marketable products.

Industry Relevant Curriculum – Over time engineering education became highly theoretical and lost its practical relevance. The courses taught in colleges are "outdated" and became irrelevant in industry. To address this problem, the SR University new curriculum places great emphasis in developing industry ready engineers. To this end, Industry-Institute Partnership Cell to fosters strong ties with the industry. The design projects are guided and assessed by industry mentors and evaluators, and students exposed to the current industry trends through constant interaction with the local industry. Through constant exposure to industry, the students have the business acumen to work and make a difference in their chosen industry

Interdisciplinary Learning – The global engineering is based on teams from different disciplines working together. For success, these interdisciplinary teams must understand different cultures associated with the disciplines and learn to see connections between different disciplines as well as course concepts. The SR University ecosystem is designed to promote these constant collisions between ideas, thoughts, disciplines, and people by creating a large common core curriculum as well as extra-curricular opportunities that lead to rich learning experience. The common core requires students of different disciplines to take classes together and lasting professional network. In view of the importance of developing the interdisciplinary learning, a Cognitive Science Center is established.

Information Technology – Information technology is revolutionizing our way of life from cell phone to Internet of things. The programmes are designed to leverage the ever-changing computer tools to create new products and services in their own areas of specialization. The new curriculum for all engineering majors provides a set of rigorous computer competency courses ranging from regular computer programming to new skills of app development, Internet of Things, and mechatronic systems. They learn to apply the computational tools in their discipline-specific projects and courses.

| 1 | FILE 13 (SMART - WASTE MANAGEMENT)Waste management is one of the vital functions of a smart city. Current mechanisms do not take into account the actual fill level from containers, and instead schedule collection on predefined intervals. Since the generation of trash is dynamic in nature, it often results in some trash cans getting overloaded and leaking while others remain almost empty. The smart trash can project is your solution. A Device that detects the level of trash in the can and sends a notification top the Municipal corporation board with GPS location, to automate the process of cleaning the trash cans |  |
| 2 | Transformer Optimal Protection using Internet of ThingsIn power system transmission and distribution transformers plays crucial role. As per the consumer requirement the transformers either step up or step down voltages and deliver the power. Sometimes they are operating under overload conditions. In this project, Microcontroller and different types of sensors can be used to protect the transformer against over load and various internal faults. Real time monitoring of the transformer is also an important part in the transformers protection. A prototype hardware module has designed to sense the temperature raise and pressure in the transformer tank using micro controller based sensors. The monitoring and protection can avoid various faults in the transformer and it can give better performance. |  |

| 4 | Monitoring and load regulation of photovoltaic solar energy conversion system using internet of thingsWorldwide, all the countries looking towards the renewable energy based electrical power generation. The solar energy is the primary renewable energy source. In the photovoltaic solar energy conversion system (PVSECS), the electrical energy is generated from the solar energy. In the rural area, operation and maintenance of PVSECS is difficult. If the systems are monitored through online, only under repairing conditions, the respective expert will visit the plant and it reduces the operating cost. In this project, presents the maximum power point tracking is maintained by controller (ESP32), light dependent resistors, and DC servomotors with driver circuit. The load is regulated by the controller using relays and the data send to the cloud. This data is useful for the online monitoring of the system. A prototype of | |

| 5 | SAGELY-Smart Water Utility SystemThis is one of the problems could affect all the creatures on the earth. Every creature faces this problem. There is a lot of impact because Life cannot survive without water and scarcity of water is increasing day by day. so we can save water and remain water for our future generation. If not they could face a serious problem with water scarcity.AGRIMONThe main objective of our project Agrimon is to monitor the ambient atmospheric conditions for proper food grain storage. We have implemented a monitoring and controlling system that monitors weather parameters like temperature, Humidity and Light. These parameters are sent to Cloud. An application is designed for remote monitoring of weather parameters in food storage room. This system is applicable for single storage house. |    |
| 6 | Saline Bottle Monitoring SystemIn hospitals, Saline is fed to patients to treat dehydration and thus improve their health.In current health care measures, whenever saline is fed to any patient, the patient needs to be continuously administered by a nurse or any caretaker. Almost in all of the hospital, a nurse or caretaker is responsible for monitoring the saline level continuously without any interruptions |  |
